we enter with time. a thousand seven hundred some souls each living a segment of life. we progress alone and with each other. we add several blocks to the structure we call ourselves. we add blocks of hope, we add blocks of joy, each an experience, each a time-though the same, vastly different. time passes—the structure grows—the segment dies. we pass on—some to college, some to work—all pursuing life, all growing, all building, but the foundation we have built remains. a foundation that is to be relived in the folds of a dream. for this time is gone—never to return—but never forgotten.

CAPE (and Whiffy)

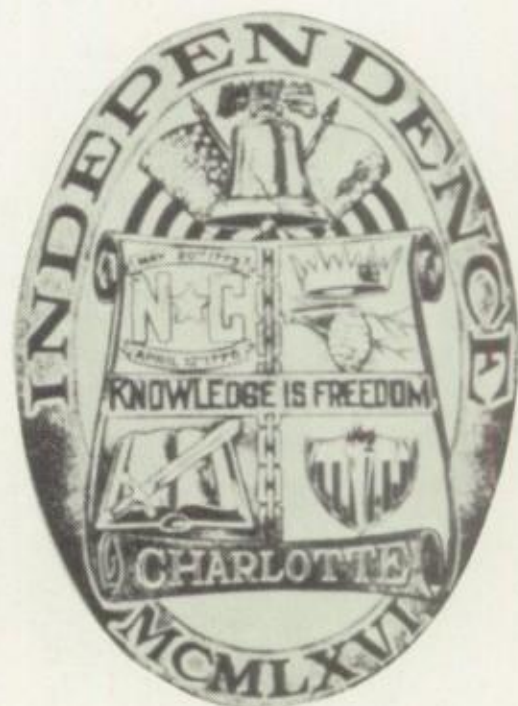

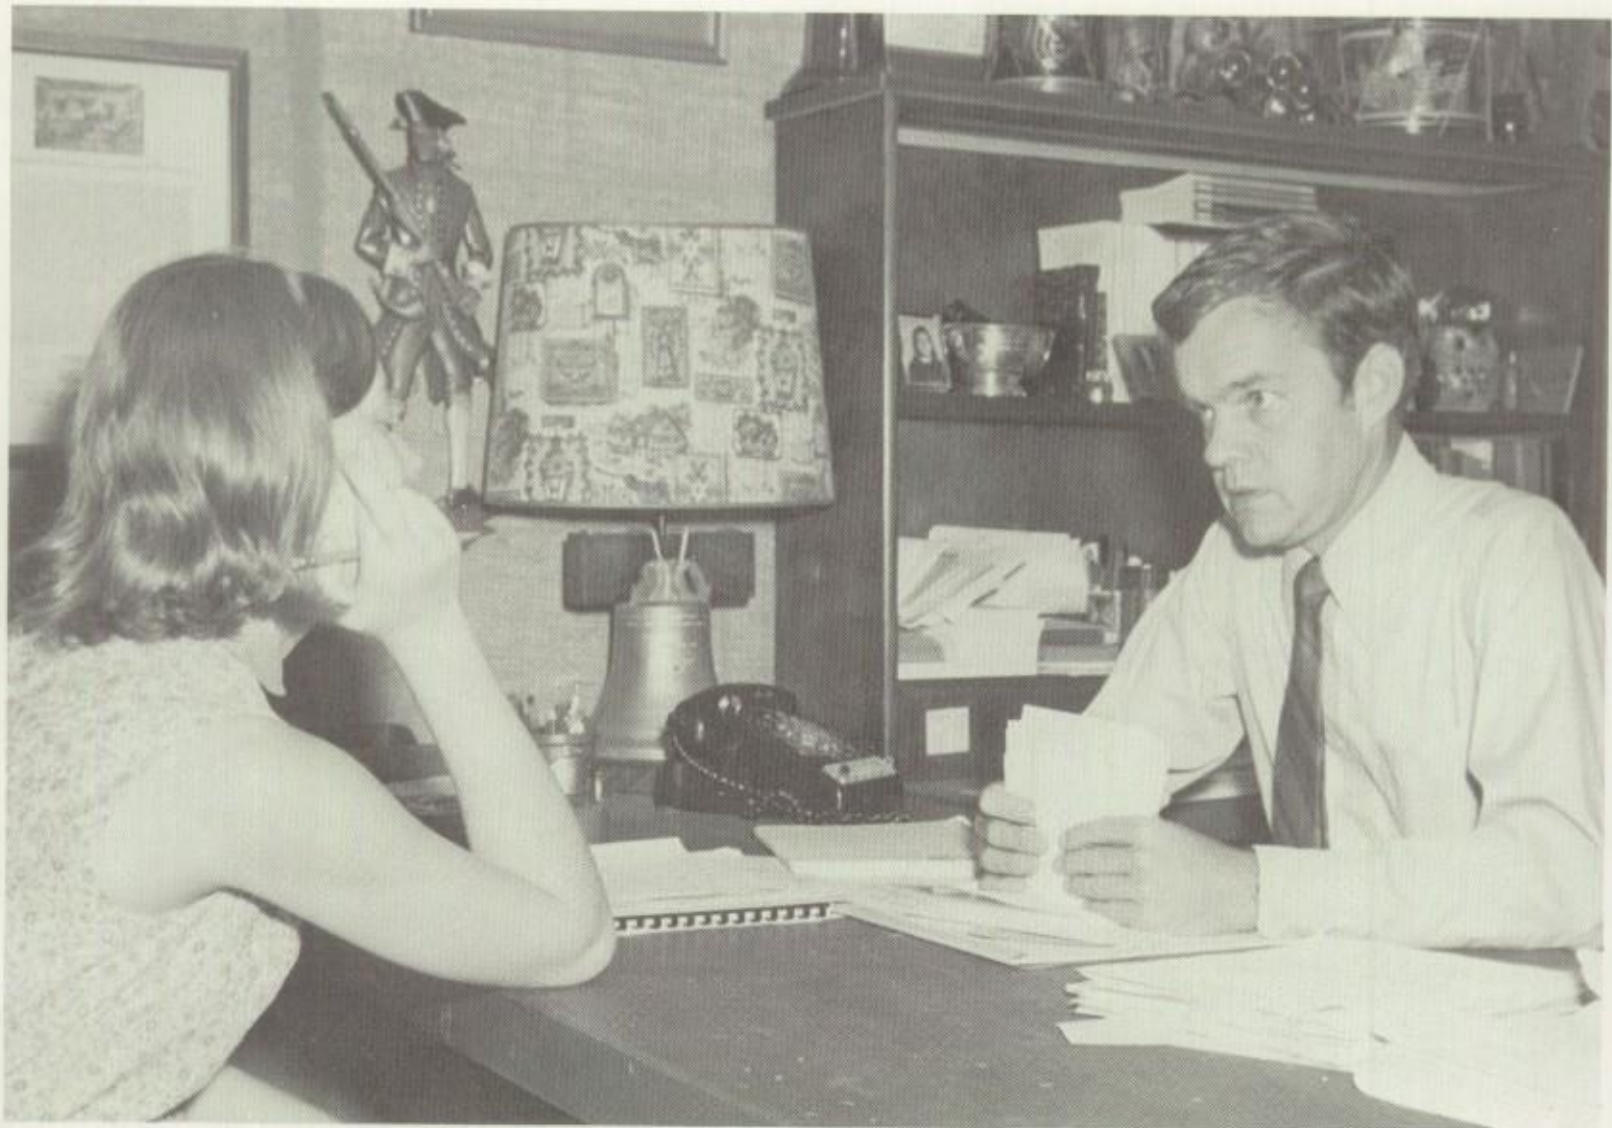

Free,
You are a girl,
who is also a great freak. Though that has nothing to do
with you too.
But it's what you are. So latter I shall

Barbara

Free,
Jim is unable to write, what he has to write so he will write latter.
I wrote this so
you would know
why, he didn't
write now.
Understand - don't say.

the senior year—the end of the beginning. twelve years of waiting, hoping, growing, thrown into one. short lived friendships, lasting friendships, each resulting from an elapse of time; each growing, each fading some living, some gone.

the senior year—the beginning of the end. graduation—the point in time that marks confusion. a diploma—a scrap of paper that marks achievement. thus, a stage is complete. the record stops, life passes, more of its participants begin the end, more terminate the beginning. each life reaches out, experiences, each spawns ideas and thoughts.

the junior year—following the class ahead as it always has, moving toward a goal yet to be defined. the previous class' past experiences being the present and tangible objectives for the junior—the ordering of rings, the junior-senior prom, and psat's.

the junior year—the halfway mark in another segment of life. no longer new to the segment but not yet at the end. a time for continual intake of information and experiences valuable in the final year of this phase and life thereafter.

from the freshly waxed

a void. a void filled with every type of emotion

because we accept life we expect change. after three months of wandering we found ourselves, our friends, our school, and our teachers different.

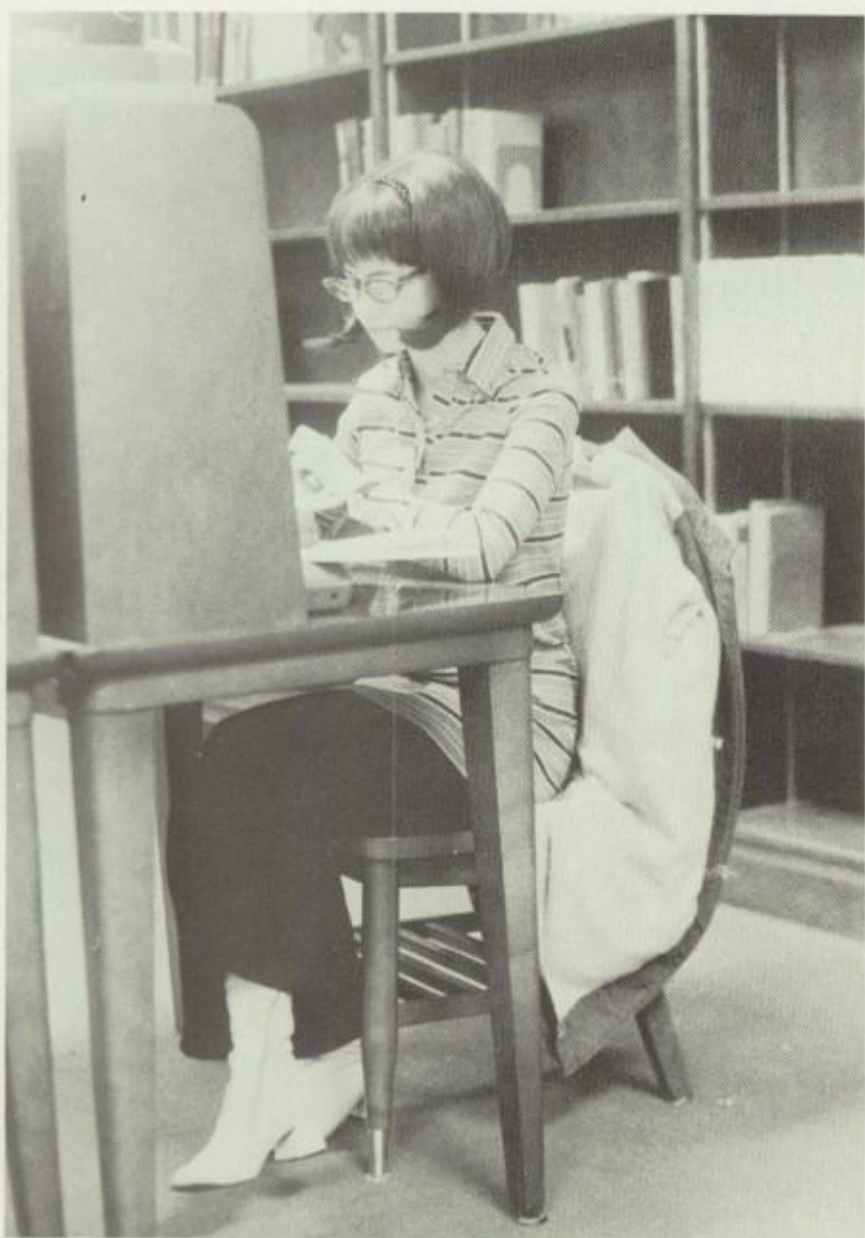

this year we have changed more than any year before. not merely because of force but because change is inevitable at Independence. until we find the best way to a stable situation we will continue to vary.

here are recorded the reflections that occurred during a year. everyone of us changed due to these reflections. we all hope that the next year will be better than the one before. our enthusiasm about our education and our years are inevitable.

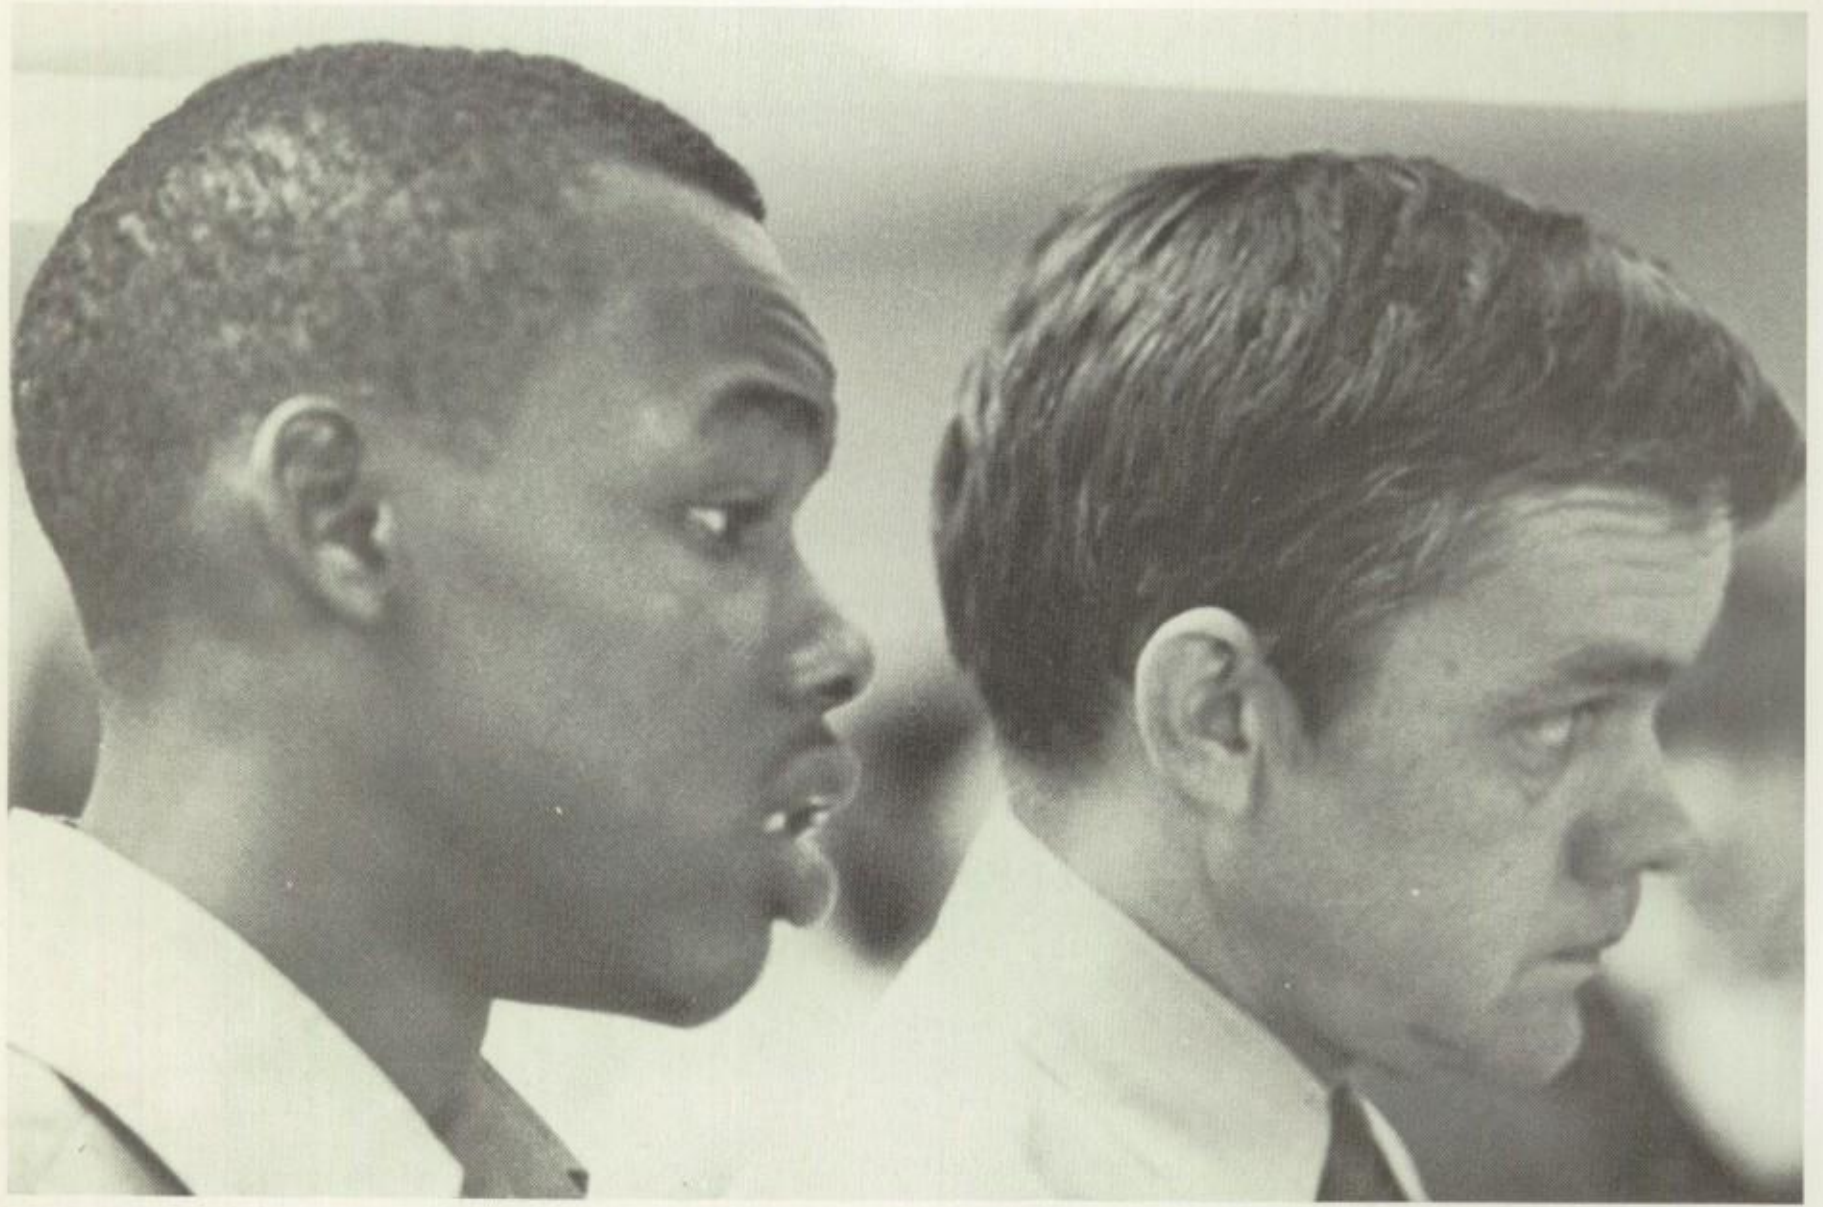

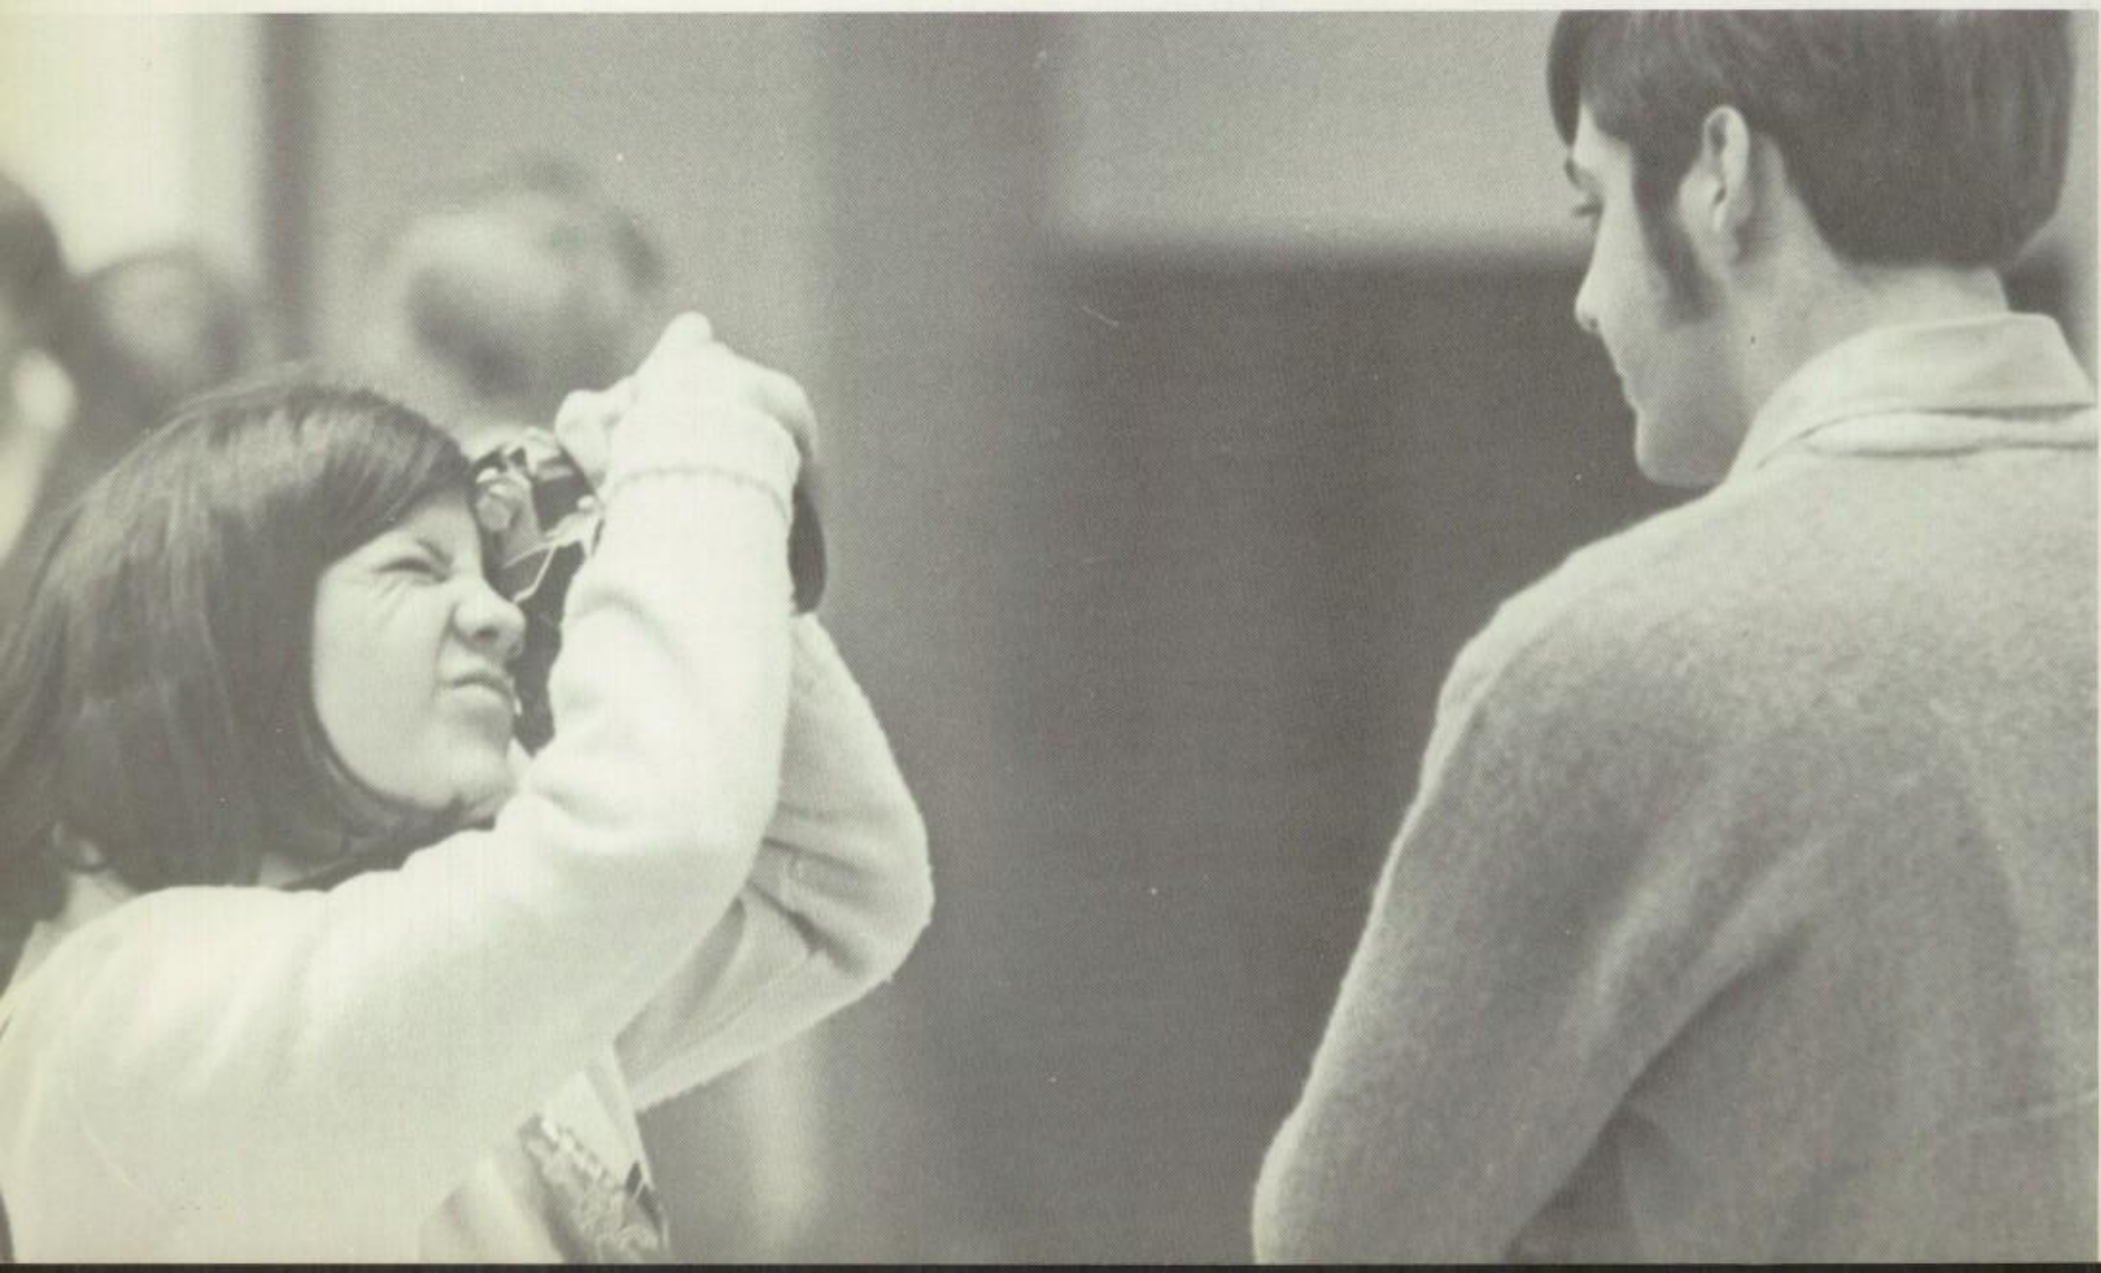

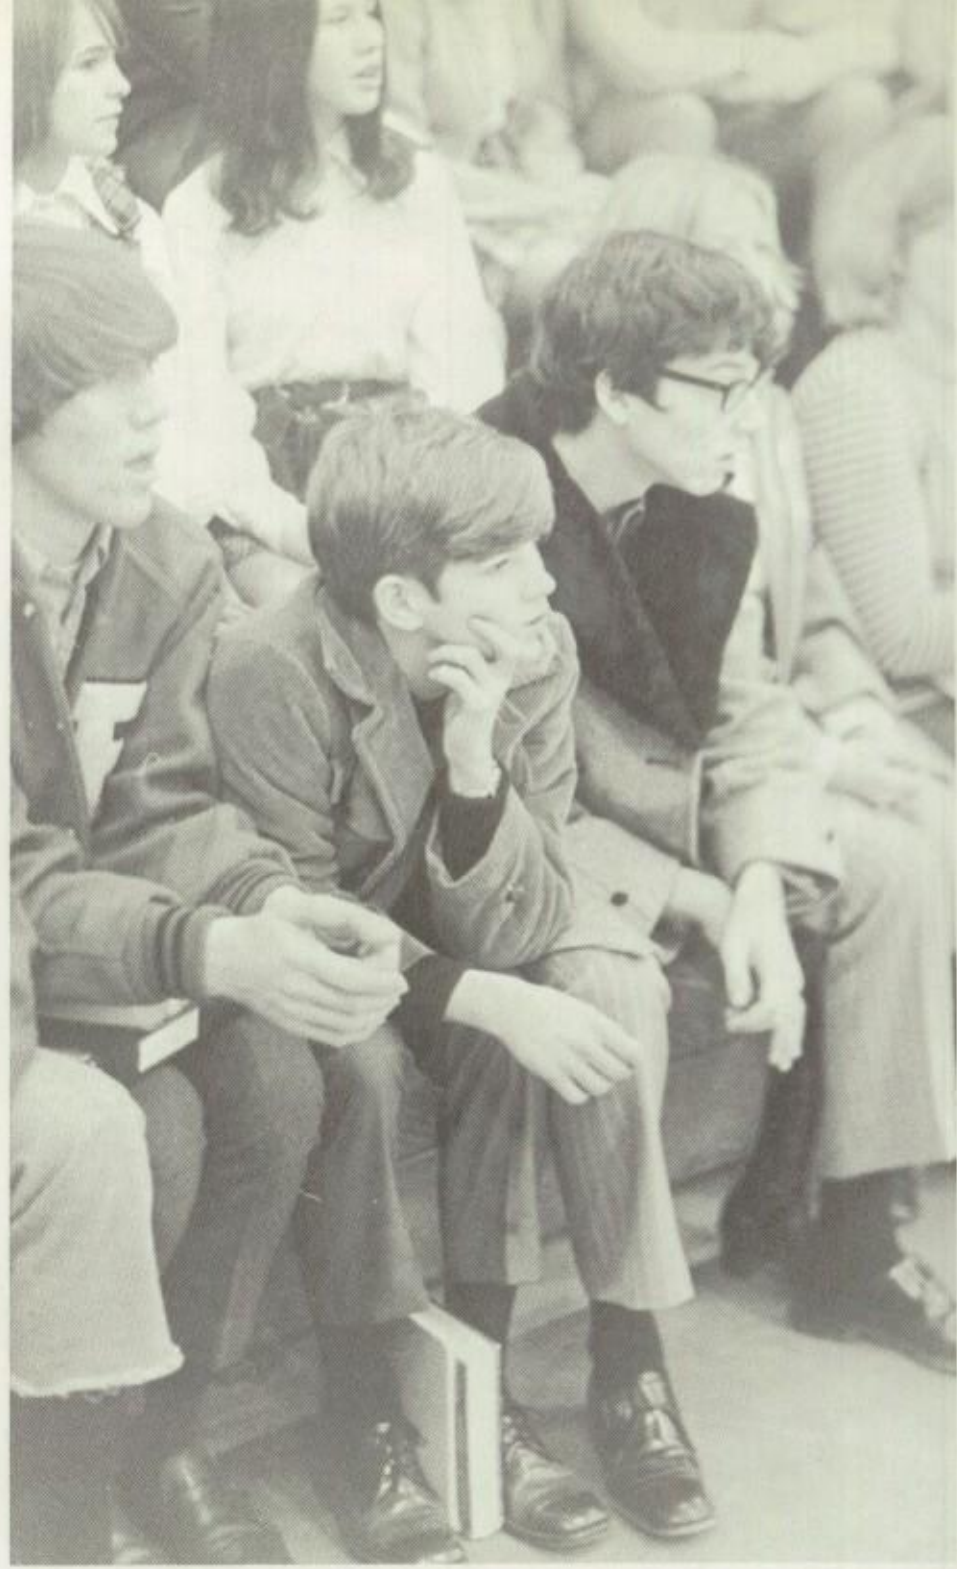

Teresa,
 Next year this time we will be deciding what we are going to do after we graduate. if we graduate. I hope that next year you don't get stuck in a crummy homeroom like Miss Bennett's or history class like Mrs. Bradley's. Good luck.

we still find it hard to believe. at last we've closed the cover of the spirit of '71 — every page in place. no longer will we face the hectic rush of deadlines, no more sleepless nights, no more lost negatives, only memories — but fond memories.

the spirit of '71 now exists — but only because of hard work from many people. we would like to thank the entire staff for the many hours spent in preparing this book for publication. one cannot appreciate the true values of a yearbook without having spent those long and late hours working on it. although our misunderstandings have been many, we still managed to complete it.

most of all we thank you the student of Independence. you are the spirit of '71. your life as a patriot is reflected here. as these pages flip past we sincerely hope you will see yourself in their depths — your confusion, your understanding, your desires and your goals, your joys and sorrows, your love, your hate, your every emotion. may this book be a true mirror of you, for, as you know — a man is only the sum of all his memories.

Free,
I've almost forgotten how it feels to write in an annual. I wish you wouldn't fret so much about our relationship.
There just isn't anything that I can do about it right now, you know that.
Someday, maybe we can work things out somehow but if this isn't the case, I want you to know that I will always love you and I will never forget you.
Don't worry about seeing me this summer to Charlotte every now and then.
